

MOOC4ALL

INNOVATIVE MODEL FOR FACILITATING ONLINE LEARNING SUCCESS

Newsletter November 2022

The MOOC4All project has successfully reached its 12 month milestone! During this time the partnership has worked towards completing the first project result which is the Social Model for Online Learning. The partners have also attended the Learning Teaching and Training Activity in Bulgaria to finalise the first project result.

ALMOST HERE! PROJECT RESULTS 2 AND 3: FACILITATOR'S MANUAL AND MOBILE APPLICATION

As the partnership is about to start working on the second and third project results, here is some information about what to expect!

Facilitators Manual: The manual will be a detailed description of each stage of the Social Model for Online Learning and how it can be led by the facilitator. It will be distributed as an Open Educational Resource and translated in the languages of the partnership.

Mobile Application: The app will act as a mobile library that will provide easy and quick connection to groups of the platform participants and retraining, quick access to links to courses and materials, reminders and notes, portfolio of each user.

Learning Teaching and Training Activity

Five people from each organisation took part in the Learning Teaching and Training Activity in Smolyan, Bulgaria from the 19th until the 23rd of September. During their time there, the partners tested the MOOC4ALL model for online learning, provided feedback and finalised it with the aim to host their piloting sessions before the end of the year.

WHAT'S NEXT?

Moving forward the partnership will work on the second and third results of the project, namely a web-platform and a facilitators manual.

The Web-platform will include all the material created during the project and will also act as a database of materials collected from the development of the model

The Facilitators Manual will allows professionals to use the Social Model for Online Learning in their future work
