Project n. 2021-1-IT02-KA220-ADU-000033552

Co-funded by the European Union

PANEL's objectives

The PANEL project wants to address the needs of both teachers and learners, and to turn difficulties into opportunities for social development. The project therefore aims to:

1. provide teachers with suggestions and IT tools to overcome difficulties in e-learning environment;
2. improve training methodologies in e-learning environment in the areas of: foreign language learning, art workshops, physical and mental well-being, ICT;
3. motivate low-skilled adults in the IT field to be active in e-learning environments.

PANEL's project's results

PANEL foresees the development of three main results:

1. Evaluation report of teacher and learner questionnaires and good practices concerning E-learning courses: Under the lead of University of Malaga, the report is aiming to assess the needs of trainers and low-skilled users in the IT field and to be able to prepare effective E-learning training courses using innovative methodologies.
2. Preparation of pilot programmes: Under the lead of KAINOTOMIA, partners will prepare 4 pilot programmes about foreign languages, psychological and physical well-being, ICT and artistic laboratories.
3. Realisation of guidelines for trainers: Under the lead of the coordinator, partners' will develop guidelines to support trainers in the implementation of the pilot programme.

PANEL's partners

- Università delle LiberEtà del FVG, Italy (Coordinator)

Partners met in Ferrol, Spain, for the second transnational meeting on November 15th and 16th 2022.

This meeting was the opportunity to complete the first project's result "Evaluation report of teacher and learner questionnaires and good practices concerning E-learning courses" and to define the framework of the elaboration of the second project's result "Preparation of pilot programmes".

A shorter version of the Evaluation Report has been created and will be available on <https://www.panelproject.eu/> in all partners' languages to spread it widely in partners' network of interested stakeholders. Partners are now working on the development of the second project result, designing innovative training course.

The next PANEL meeting will be held in Udine (Italy) on May 25th and 26th 2023.
