ABOUT THE PROJECT

Prospects In Peripheries (PIP) aims in mapping the problem, researching and sharing carefully selected fact-based smart practices of how to change the narrative of the peripheries from marginalisation to local success. Further, in PIP the goal is to encourage unemployed citizens of all ages from peripheral, often structurally weak, border regions to create, develop for implementation project ideas that increase prospects for people in their regions, albeit enabling community workers and peripheral citizens to make a durable positive impact on their regions and their own future.

PIP intends to implement:

- 5 transnational project meetings
- 1 JSTE
- 2 Intellectual Outputs
- 7 Multiplier Events
- Monitoring and Evaluation activities
- Various other outcomes
- Dissemination activities
- Final training seminars for NEETs during a period of 28 months of project activities running from 01-09-2019 til 31/12/2021.

FURTHER MORE...

The project will provide activities that meet the needs of citizens, who want to use innovative educational methods to get involved in the development of their regional area and to find new possibilities in developing projects and entrepreneurial ventures, improving employability, socioeducational and personal development, all of which will support the aim of changing the narrative of their local, peripheral region, in a fast-changing world.

PIP intends of course to contribute to the empowerment and self-employability of citizens in the periphery society in which they live. These persons will come out directly from the local environment and will be involved offering them the new opportunities that the project can develop.

In this sense also the help of other organisations working in the same areas for the same scopes will be asked.

PIP foresees 2 intellectual outputs. Both of them are planned to allow the development of innovative tools with the aim to train NEETs to develop their own projects, thus promoting local communities, in direct connection with the JSTE and directed as a T.o.T. (training of trainers) for the partner. The participants will be actively involved in the creation of these outputs.
