Our Mission

The RECOVER: European Youth for a Green Recover is designed to address youth unemployment by promoting green entrepreneurship in line with the EU economy's green transition efforts.

Our Objectives

- train young people to become environmentally literate and develop green and digital technologies skills and competences
- develop young people's perception of the concept of green entrepreneur
- to help youth workers/trainers adjust their training to environmental literacy, green entrepreneurship, and green digital technologies
- provide young people with employability opportunities by promoting entrepreneurship amid the green transition efforts to disseminate the project results and activities at local/regional, national, and EU levels

PROJECT RESULTS

The RECOVER Practical Implementation Paper: An Introduction to Green Economy & Green Entrepreneurship

A collection of practical guidelines, information, and steps directly addressed to young people for helping them become green entrepreneurs.

The RECOVER Online Interactive Toolset

A web-based application addressed to both young people and youth workers/trainers aiming to assess the skills level of young people on three green competency thematics and to provide training based on these thematics, addressed to both young people and youth workers/trainers.

The RECOVER Environmental Ethics Campaign

A green awareness-raising campaign that includes a guide containing tips and suggestions on how to be an environmentally ethical entrepreneur, a series of podcasts with existing green entrepreneurs or influencers that describe their way of application of environmental-friendly business practices, and an online campaign including the dissemination of the developed material and workshops on how to be green digital entrepreneurs.
